We say that faces are all alike,
  and yet we find them all different.
We should expect all faces to look alike, since all persons share the same human nature.
Variety is the real surprise, finding all faces different.

NO SMOKING
14

Now the clouds are going forever here awhile then gone evermore and a child on the far side of never has to run when time closes the door.

I know all your ways; and look, I have set before you an open door, which no one can shut.

EXIT

NO SMOKING

Warm, eager, living life-- to be rooted in life-- to learn, to desire to know, to feel, to think, to act.
That is what I want.

It's a long road to freedom
One that's hard to find One that's full of pain and death and people left behind
One that means a journey to places never dared and meeting people on the way who never seem to care
Then one night when hope seems gone
A star begins to shine and you reach out to take it saying
            "It is mine."

What types of things do you interpret?
A person's heart? Their actions?
Their feeling? A poem? A painting?
A musical arrangement?
How is it you can interpret a heart,
And how is it you can interpret a poem,
And how is it you can interpret at all?
For to interpret is to merely give your opinion after the absorption of media.
Did the poet think this? Did the poet mean that?
The artist Michelangelo was a certain type of person because he sculpted a certain type of woman,
But all this is baseless mental exercise, and therein lies the beauty the artist has intended for you - A never ending source of imaginative possibilities. . . .

Through my eyes I can see, the beauty of nature the architecture of mankind and the war between men.

Through my hands I can feel, the softness of skin
the sensation of water and the oozing of blood.

Through my ears I can hear, the sound of crashing waves the chirping of birds and the moaning of the sick.

Through my nose I can smell, the scent of forest air the smell of a rose and the decaying of human bodies.

Through my mind I can imagine the dreams and promises of yesterday the happiness of tomorrow and the sadness of today.

The Seagull

A pure white gull his wingtips black woke in the morning. . . .

I couldn't sleep
so I came down to the beach, and climbed into the sky,

then dipped his wings,
as if in greeting flew back and disappeared.

Who are we? What will we do
With our lives and our minds
When all this is through?

Will we be happy-how will we live through our lives with our minds
How much can we give?

Questions-no answers-we all wonder why
Our frustrations and fears-
Our hopes and our tears-
Our sadness and thoughtfulness contemplations, meditations, fascinations of life and love-but mostly Uncertainties and doubts about ourselves-identity.

Abstract feelings inspire pieces of art that through words and through pictures reveal thoughts from the heart.
-Abstract becomes concrete-Slowly these expressions serve as a tool for teaching us of our lives and our minds-
-the reason for school-Questions answered.

Dads Club dance benefits Marian

The new year started out with a bleak economic outlook, but for the Marian High Dads Club, everything's turning up great.

Staging its first benefit for the Catholic girls school in Birmingham, the Dads club raised more than $2,000 Friday night at a $100-a-couple dinner dance held in the school gym.

After the decorations committee, headed by Mrs. Robert Reason, finished with the winter wonderland mobiles and ornaments furnished by Saks, the gym became an appropriate setting for the evening party.

Almost everything for the benefit was donated, including the decorations, food, prizes and orchestra.

Proceeds will go for the school's athletic program, an activities bus and various other school needs, according to the school's principal, James Moseley, and members of the Dad's Club, which is in its second year.

Marian students served as hostesses for the beef buffet and some even shared dances with their dads to the music of The Casuals following dinner.

Dads Club members who assisted in planning and staging the benefit were Keith Blake; Pat Norton; Ed Lynch; Vince Sahli, club president; Bob Krue and Bob Temmerman, among others.

MARK OF EXCELLENCE

We want you to drive what you like and like what you drive.

And there could be no more beautiful proof of this than the new small cars we're offering for 1975.

There's our new Chevrolet Monza 2+2, Pontiac Astre, Oldsmobile Starfire and Buick Skyhawk—without question some of the sportiest looking cars we've ever built, and all geared for better overall operating economy.

Then there's our Chevrolet Nova, Pontiac Ventura, Oldsmobile Omega and Buick Apollo. They're restyled with a European flair, and feature a big lineup of small engines.

All in all, GM has more than 140 separate models you can choose from this year. Small-size, mid-size and full-size cars. Personal models. Station wagons. America's only production sports car and convertibles. Plus a large number of vehicles for recreational use, including the GMC Motor Home.

So for the widest selection of cars in the business, remember General Motors when you're shopping around.

At GM, we want you to drive what you like and like what you drive.

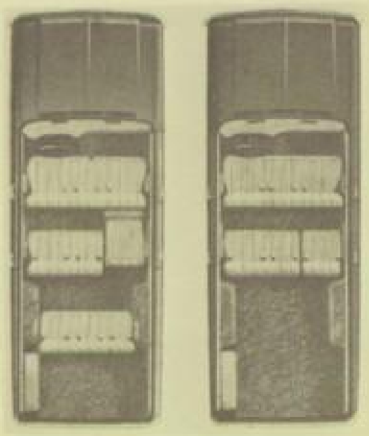
Does everything a wagon can. And a lot a wagon can't.

Chevy Suburban. Tough like a truck, smooth like a wagon.



More room inside for people and luggage.

Suburban's wide, foam-cushioned front seat welcomes three passengers. A folding second seat is available which accommodates various combinations of people (up to three) and, when folded, cargo (up to 144 cu. ft.). With the available third seat, you have places for three more (that's nine altogether) and space left over for luggage and such. Double rear doors that can be opened wide without unhitching the trailer are standard. Wagon-type tailgate with retractable window also available.

Built on a rugged truck chassis.

We start with a frame made from tough carbon steel. Then we add Massive Girder Beam independent front suspension, with husky coil springs to soak up road shocks. Two-stage rear leaf springs for a good ride, empty or full. A Salisbury-type rear axle to help carry the load. And a computer-matched brake system built around front disc brakes and finned rear drums. More reasons why Chevy Suburban can do things a wagon can't.

Pulls more than a standard-size wagon.

Not many tow vehicles can pull big trailers and seat as many as the trailer sleeps. A properly equipped Series 20 Suburban moves up to 14,000 lbs. including itself, passengers, cargo and trailer. You needn't leave behind anything, or anyone.

Full-time 4-wheel drive available.

No more getting in and out to lock and unlock front hubs as you move on or off the road. And you'll find that drive power at all four corners is also an advantage on rain-slicked pavement or ice. What's more, a 4-wheel-drive Suburban's entry height is conveniently low, which also gives it a pleasingly low profile.

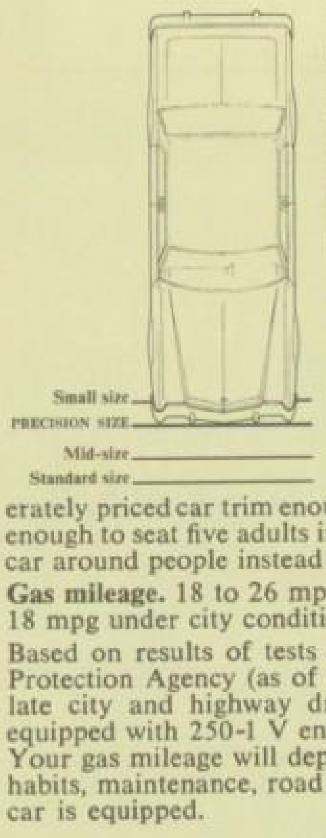
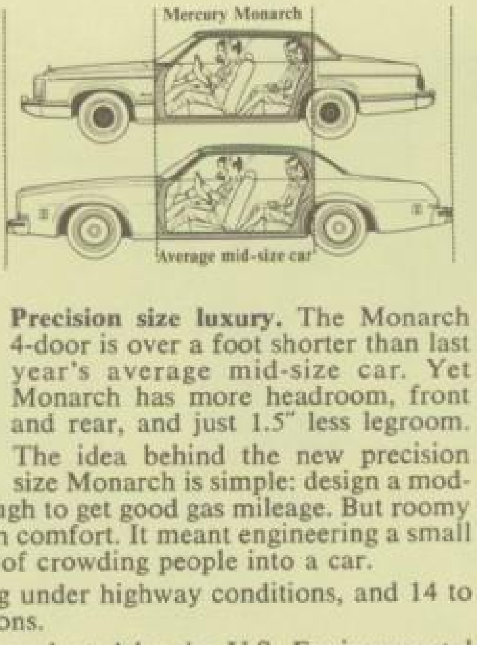
Monarch Ghia 4-door sedan. Comes equipped with precision cast 250 CID 6-cylinder engine, front disc brakes, fully reclinable European style bucket seats, solid-state ignition, white side wall steel-belted radial ply tires, 19.2 gallon fuel tank, high level ventilation, quartz crystal controlled digital timepiece, map pockets, carpeted luggage compartments, deeply grained vinyl roof, wire spoke wheel covers, body guard molding, foot-operated parking brake, flush mounted windows and door handles.

Lincoln-Mercury introduces a new precision size luxury car. Engineered to give good gas mileage and comfort for five adults. Mercury Monarch 1975.





Precision size luxury. The Monarch 4-door is over a foot shorter than last year's average mid-size car. Yet Monarch has more headroom, front and rear, and just 1.5" less legroom.

The idea behind the new precision size Monarch is simple: design a moderately priced car trim enough to get good gas mileage. But roomy enough to seat five adults in comfort. It meant engineering a small car around people instead of crowding people into a car.

Gas mileage. 18 to 26 mpg under highway conditions, and 14 to 18 mpg under city conditions.

Based on results of tests conducted by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (as of 8-9-74) using a dynamometer to simulate city and highway driving conditions on this type of car equipped with 250-1 V engine and frequently purchased options. Your gas mileage will depend on the type of driving and driving habits, maintenance, road and weather conditions, and how your car is equipped.

Practical luxury. Monarch Ghia's European style bucket seats are designed for long distance riding comfort. Each is fully reclinable and completely adjustable to your personal preference. There are roomy map pockets behind each front seat, and European style assist straps and grab handles throughout the interior.

$^{$}3764^{00}$* Monarch 2-dr. coupe with precision cast 200 CID 6-cyl. engine, front disc brakes, reclinable buckets, solid state ignition, steel-belted radials, 19.2 gallon fuel tank, high level ventilation, opera windows. Optional whitewalls $32.60 extra.

Options include:
250 CID Six
302 CID V-8
351 CID V-8
Genuine leather seating surfaces
Power steering Power brakes
Power windows
Air conditioning
Whitewalls
Power moon roof
Cast aluminum wheels
SelectShift transmission
Rear window defroster
AM/FM Multiplex tape

*Base sticker price excluding dealer preparation, destination charges, title & taxes. Optional 250 CID Six required in California

Mercury Monarch has been engineered with more luxuries and it offers more options than we have ever before built into any small car.

Ford Mustang II. The success car of '74 is doing it again in '75.

New Ghia styling. New exciting choices and features. Even a V-8. Look close and you'll see Mustang II has even more going for you in '75.

The elegant Mustang II Ghia.

In its first year Mustang II ran away from all its so-called "competition" combined.

And for '75, we've made Mustang II more exciting than ever.

With a new V-8 available. An even more luxurious Ghia model.

An even more impressive list of standard features.

An even wider choice of exciting options. Here's one small car that's still so new you've got to see it all over again in 1975.

Look close at Mustang II Ghia. From its sleek lines, to its new grille, to its classic opera windows and half vinyl roof, you are looking at a small car with an unusually high level of style and luxury. Standard equipment includes 4-speed floor mounted transmission, plush bucket seats, quartz crystal digital clock, and thick carpeting. Even carpeting in the trunk.

Look close at Mustang II's new standard features. To the already long and impressive list of Mustang II equipment, we've added two very important economy features for '75:

- Steel-belted radial ply tires for improved gas mileage.
- Solid-state ignition, which requires less maintenance than conventional systems.

When you add these to all the other standard features of the Mustang II, and the wide range of exciting options, you can appreciate why in sales, in quality, in value, this small car is in a class of its own.

Look close at the model and engine choice. (There's even a small V-8.) This year Mustang II offers a choice of three economical engines. A standard overhead cam 4, an optional V-6 or the newly available 302 V-8.

For '75, in addition to the Ghia model, there's also a 2-door hardtop, a 3-door 2+2, and a sporty Mach 1.

There's even a special new Ghia. The Silver Ghia. The Silver Luxury Group option makes this Silver Ghia special because of features like the cranberry crushed velour seating area, silver metallic finish, exclusive trim and a one-way glass moon-roof option. Look close at Ford Mustang II for 1975.

See it at your local Ford Dealer.

The closer you look, the better we look.
